

CIHEAM Ministerial meeting in Tunis: Young people and women as Mediterranean priorities

Press release

24 April 2019
Tunis, Tunisia

Tunisia will host, on November 5th, the 12th meeting of the Ministers of Agriculture from CIHEAM member states which will deal with youth and women strengthening and empowerment in rural and agrarian areas as a lever of sustainable development. Preparatory discussions between Mr. Samir Taïeb, Tunisia's Ministry of Agriculture, hydraulic resources and Fisheries and CIHEAM took place yesterday in Tunis.

Mr. Mohamed Sadiki, the President of the Governing Board and Mr. Placido Plaza the Secretary General of the CIHEAM, were invited on April 23rd in Tunis by Mr. Samir Taïeb, Minister of Agriculture, hydraulic resources and Fisheries for a preparatory visit towards the 12th meeting of the Ministers of Agriculture from CIHEAM member states which will be held in Tunis on November 5th 2019 and which will focus on young people and women in rural, agricultural and coastal areas.

In order to tackle the high unemployment rates of young people and women, the challenge of inclusion of the most fragile territories into the growth of the countries, agriculture, sustainable fishing and agribusinesses are key economic sectors which must be supported and strengthened.

These sectors can be catalysts for human capital and contribute significantly to reduce inequalities if a targeted investment in training, capacity building and professional integration is achieved for the most vulnerable people.

In line with the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), the member states of the CIHEAM adopted, two years ago, a new strategic Agenda: the CAPMED 2025.

This agenda, aiming at contributing to overcome development challenges in the area sets among its priorities the investment in new generations and weak territories through, in particular, the creation of projects taking part in the strengthening and the empowerment of young people and women in rural areas.

CIHEAM

Established in 1962, the International Centre for Advanced Mediterranean Agronomic Studies (CIHEAM) is a Mediterranean intergovernmental organisation composed of 13 Member States (Albania, Algeria, Egypt, France, Greece, Italy, Lebanon, Malta, Morocco, Portugal, Spain, Tunisia and Turkey). As a key player in multilateral cooperation in the fields of agriculture, food, fisheries and rural territories, its missions revolve around four main objectives:

Protection of the planet by combating waste in all its forms including waste of knowledge and know-how;

Food and nutrition security by boosting sustainable agriculture and food;

Inclusive development by investing in new generations and fragile territories;

Prevention of crises and resilience of territories.

The CIHEAM Action Plan for the Mediterranean 2025 (CAPMED 2025) that falls within the Agenda 2030 for Sustainable Development of the United Nations is based on these four lines. The CIHEAM carries out its missions through the tools of specialised training, network research, cooperation, technical assistance but also political dialogue and partnerships.
